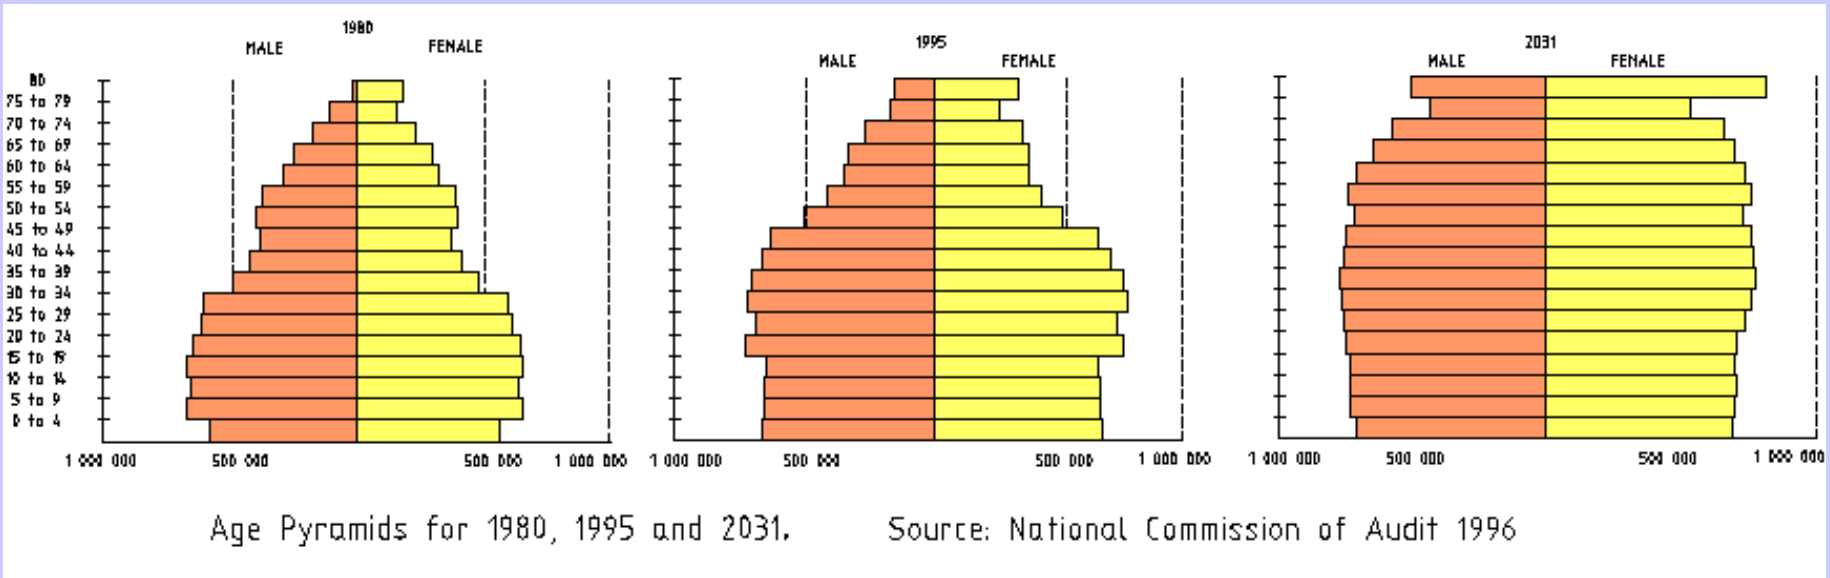
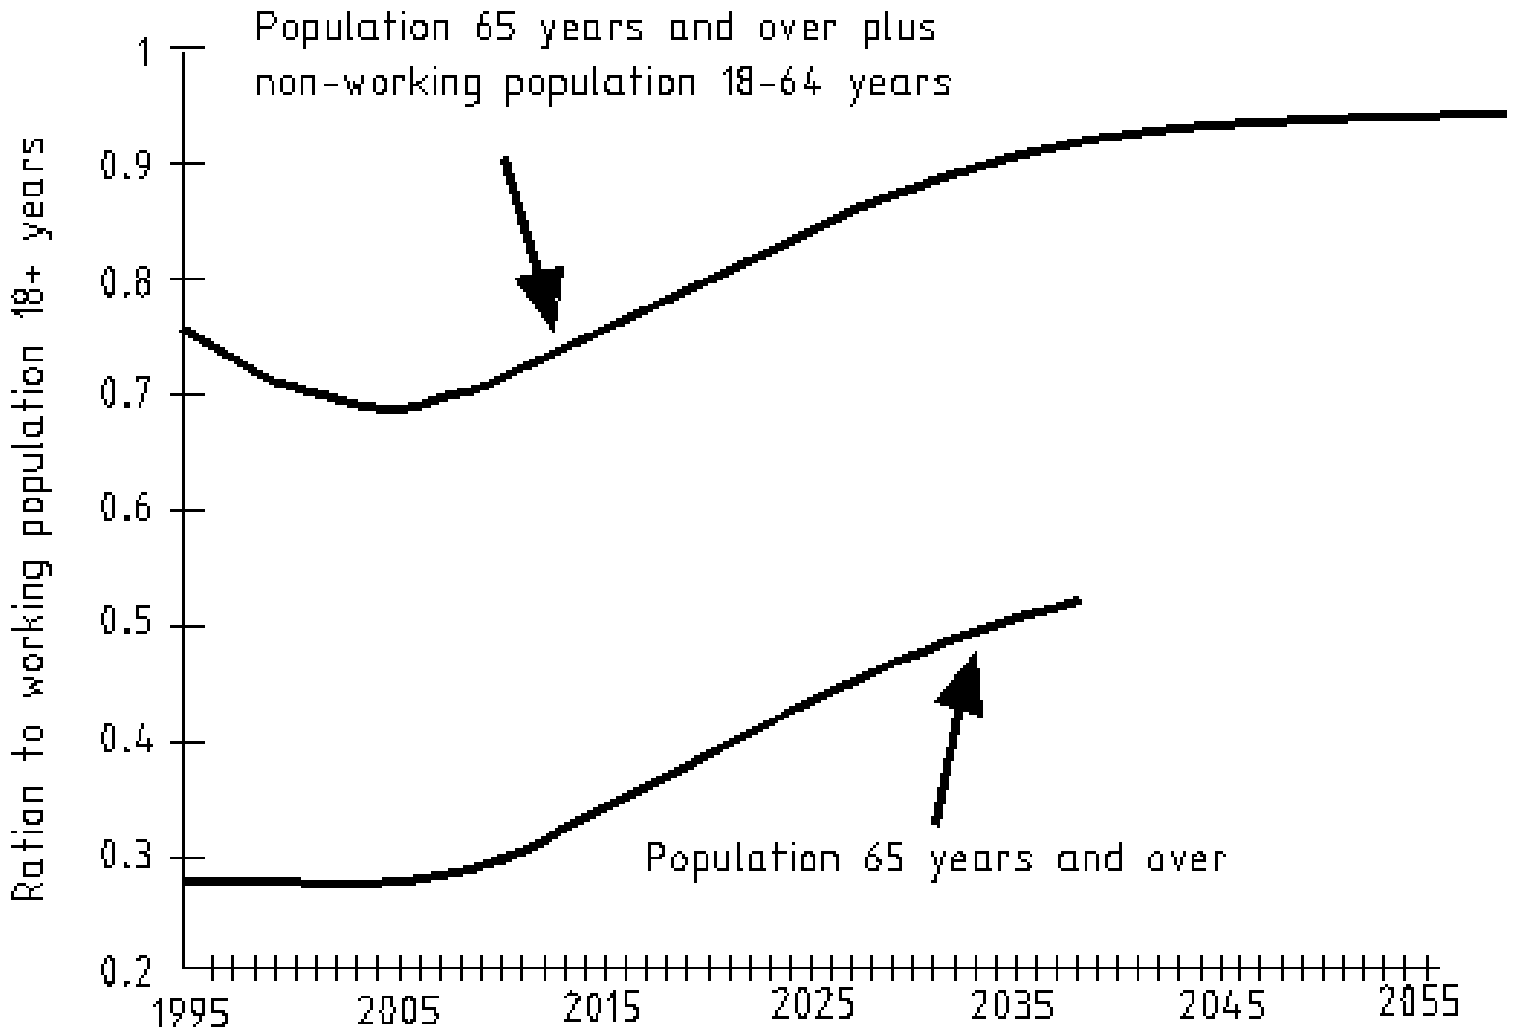
The Mareeba Wetlands: Planning for Wildlife Management through Tourism

© Tim Nevard 2001

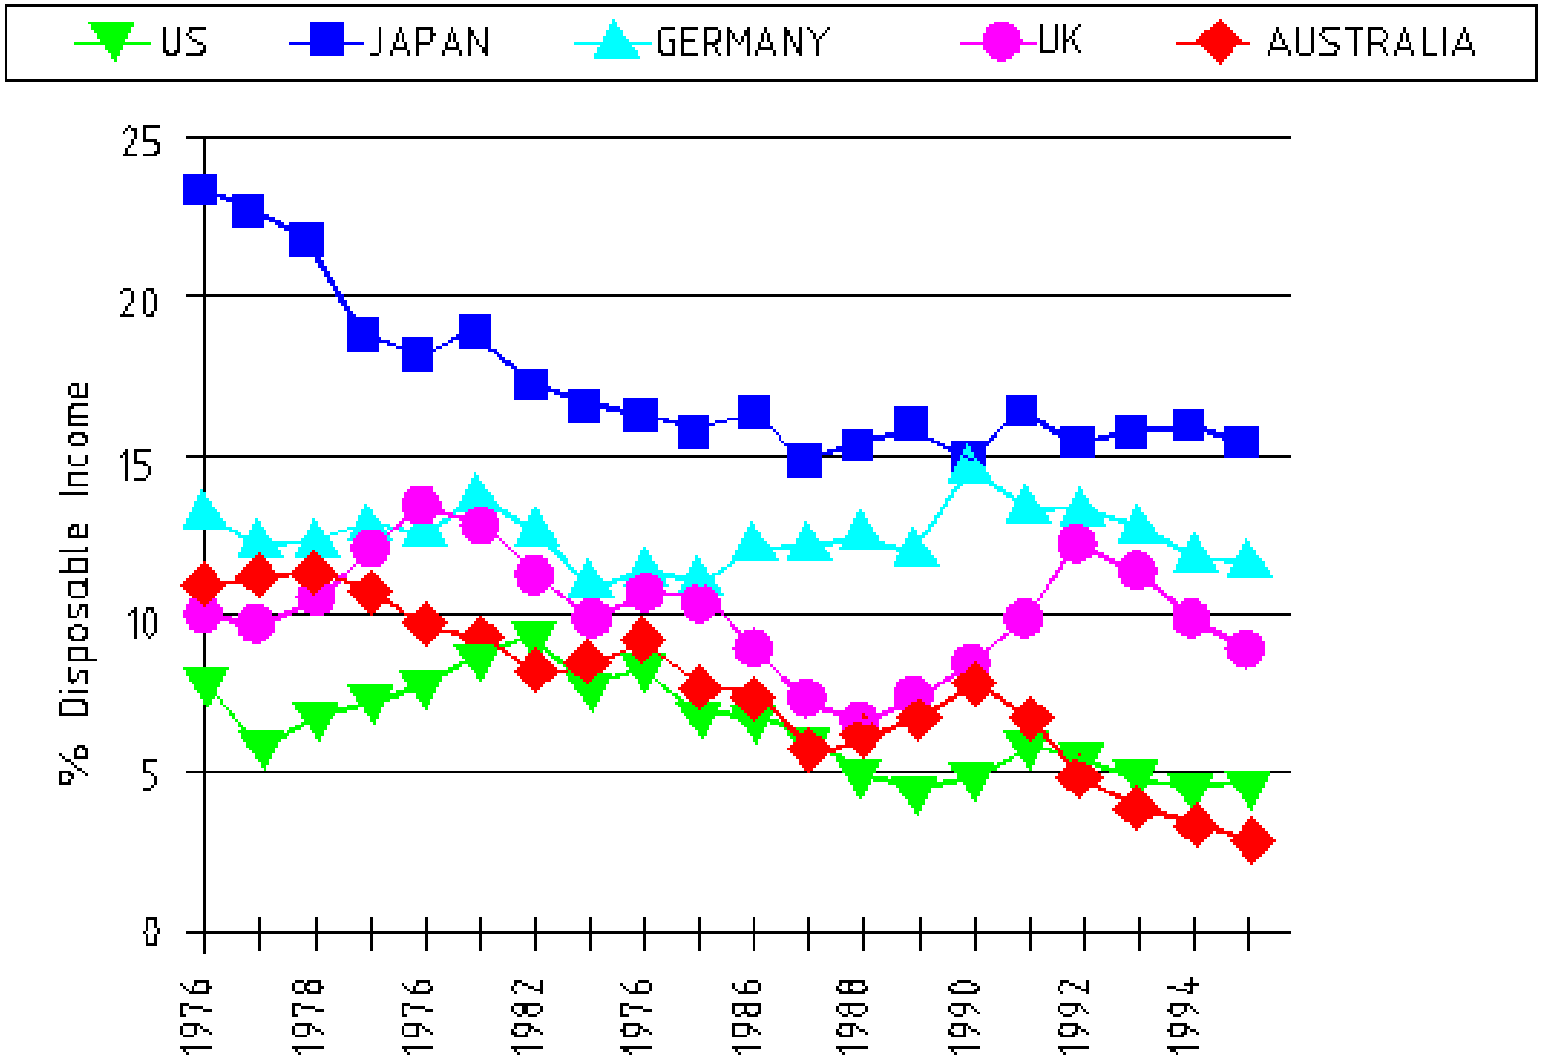
PITT & SHERRY



Age Pyramids for 1980, 1995 and 2031. Source: National Commission of Audit 1996



Workforce dependency rations modelled from 1995 to 2055.
Source: National Commission of Audit 1996



Household Savings as a percentage of disposable income.
Source: Australian Financial Review (1996)

Figure 1 Estimated and Projected Operating Results Queensland Government – 1994-95 to 2005-06.
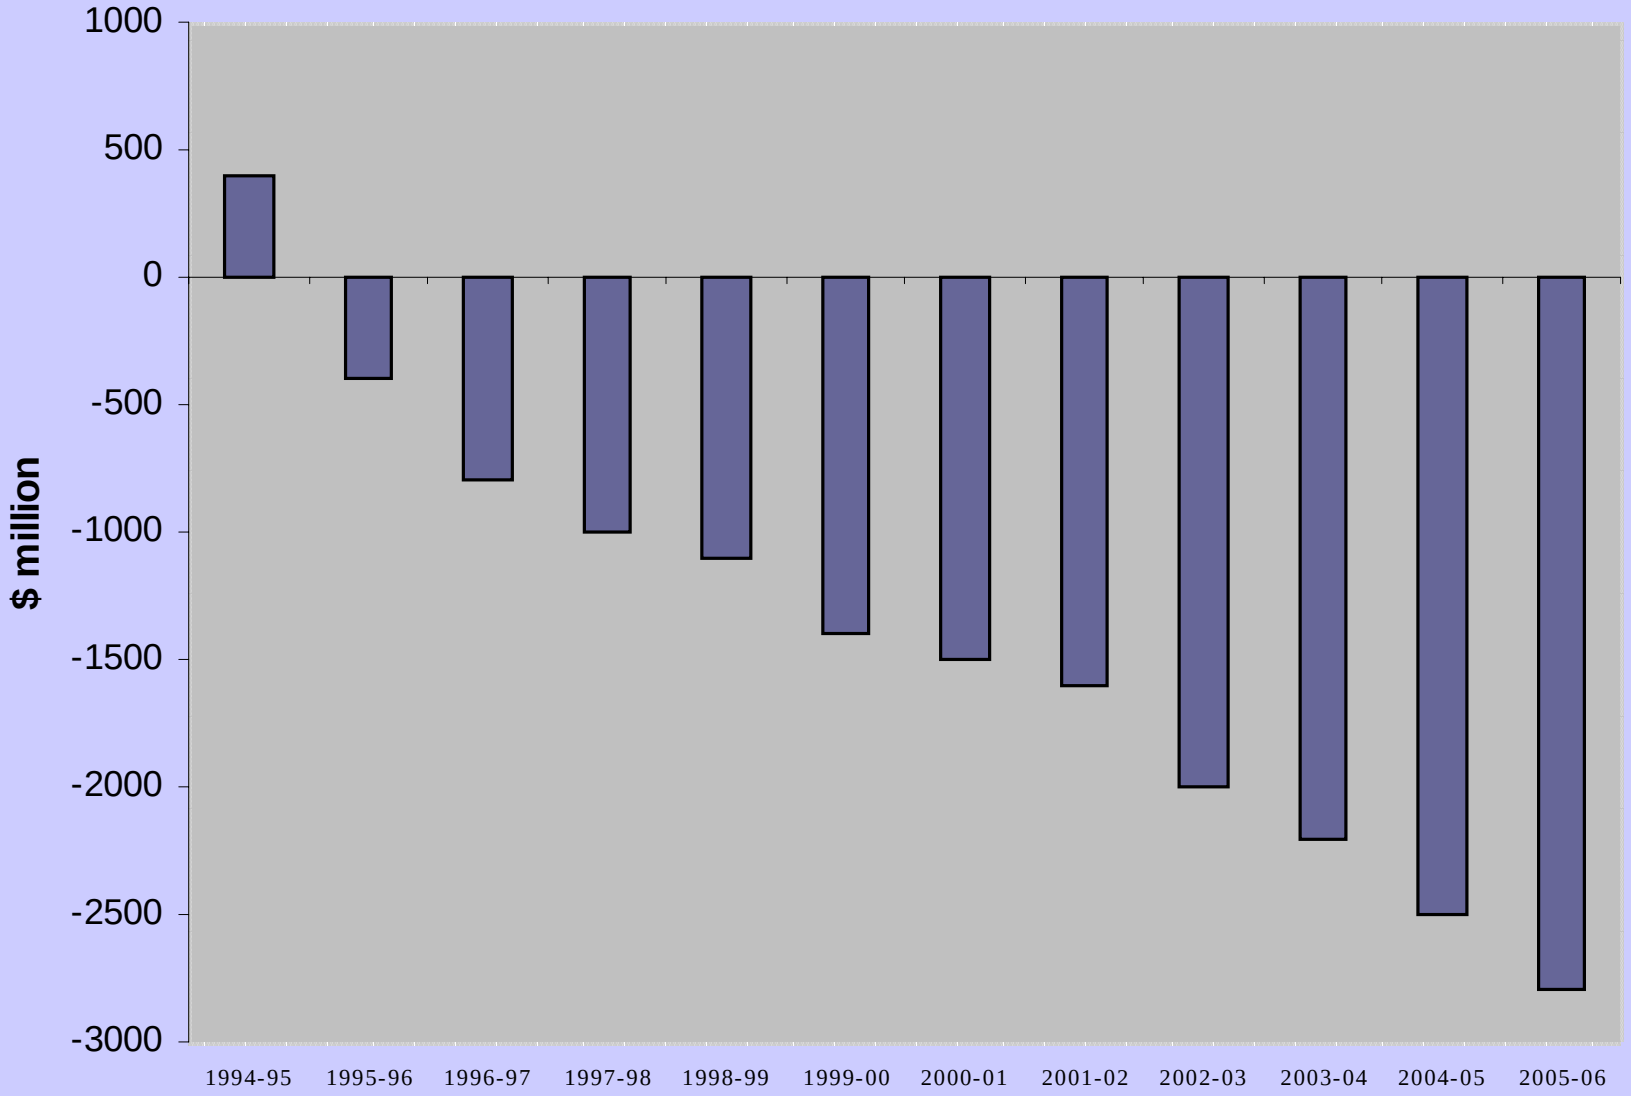
Source: Queensland Commission of Audit 1996



PITT & SHERRY

Figure 2 Number of wildlife reserves in KwaZulu Natal, open to the public in 1997, By Size Category ource: Nevard et al (1998)

PITT & SHERRY

Figure 3 Number of wildlife reserves in KwaZulu Natal, open to the public in 1997, By Size Category Source: Nevard et al (1998)

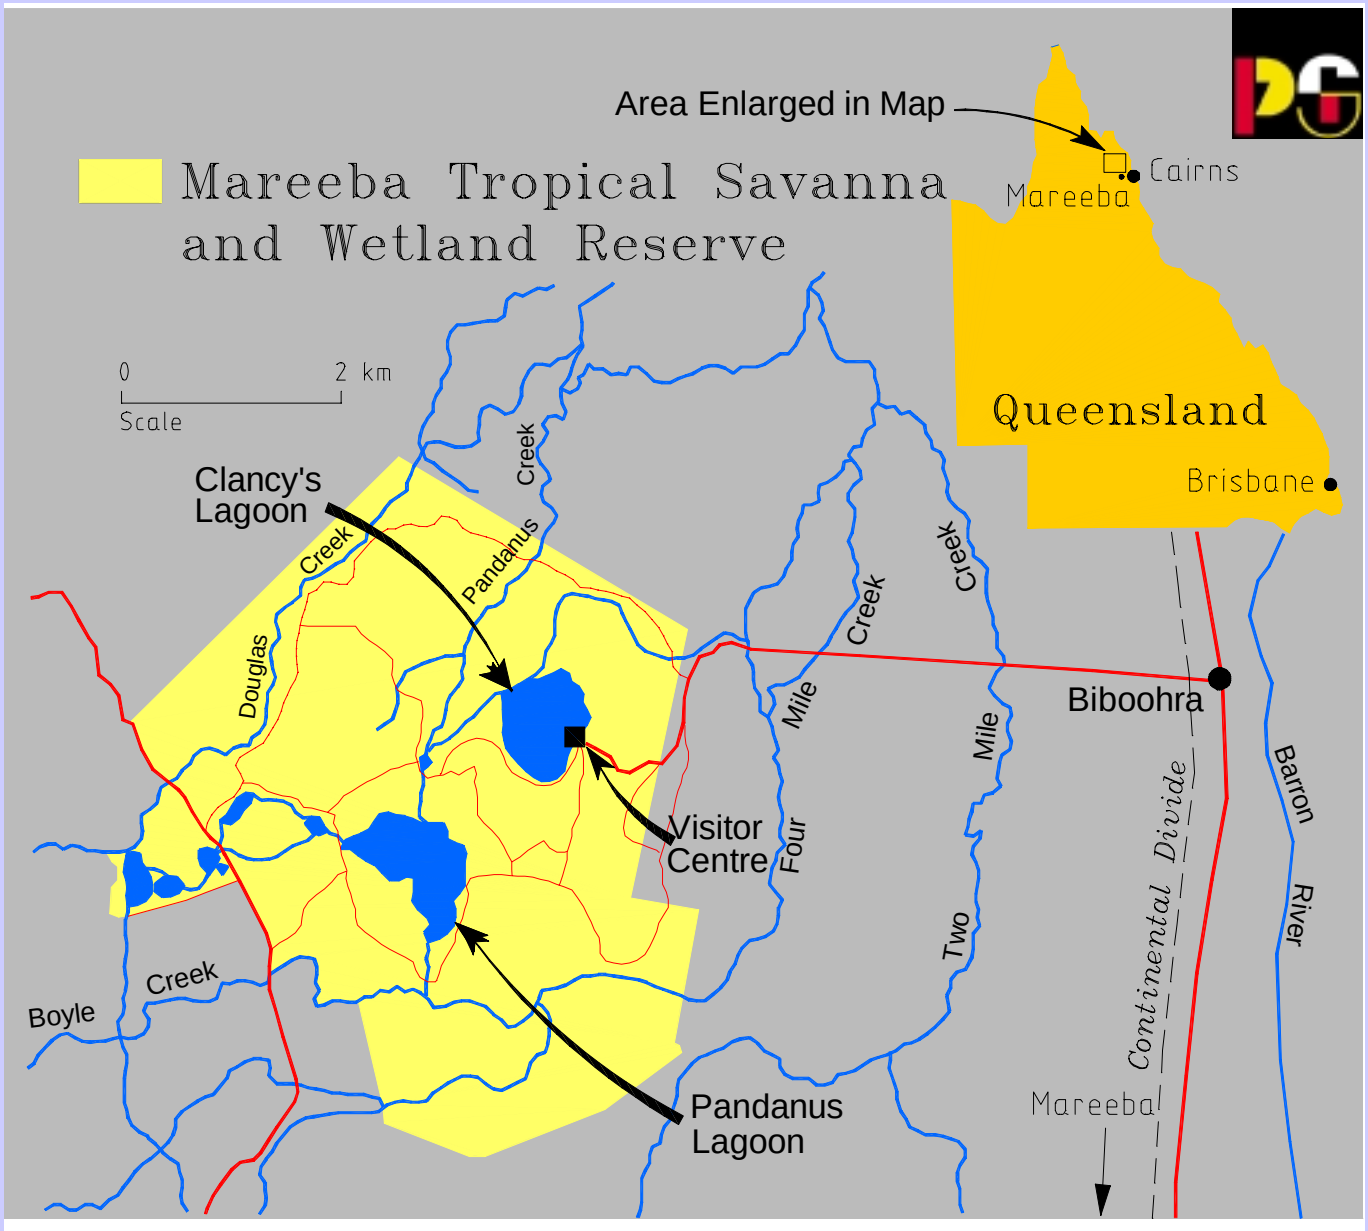
Table 1 Visitors Seeking Wildlife-Related Activities in Australia in 1989

Country of Origin
Canada	61%
Japan	79%
Europe	68%
U.K.	59%
USA	57%
Asia	55%
NZ	36%
Other	35%

Source: Brokensha and Guldberg (1992)

Figure 4 The Mareeba Tropical Savanna and Wetland Reserve



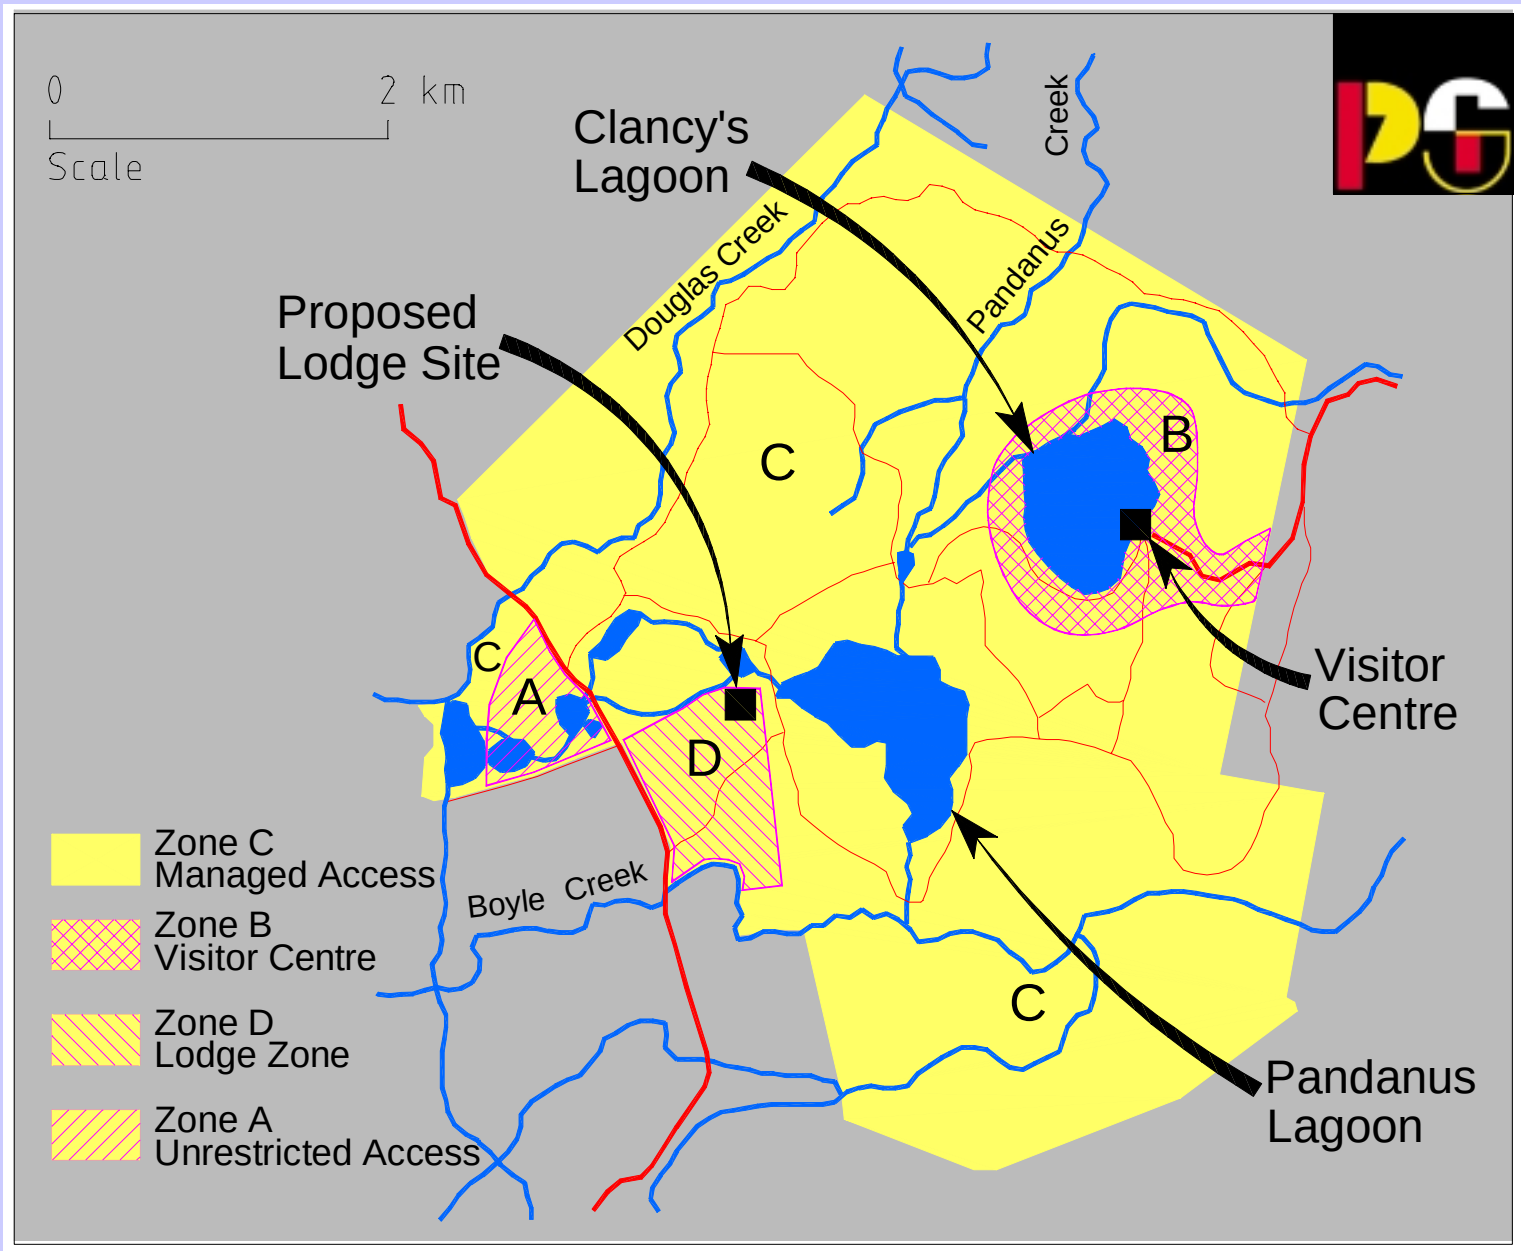


Figure 5 Mareeba Wetlands; Tourism Infrastructure and Visitor Zoning